

Tamilla Nurizada

Associate

+972 74 7580480

tnurizada@sullivanlaw.co.il

Tamilla focuses on U.S. securities law, capital markets and high-tech transactions.

While in law school, Tamilla authored an article on global securities regulation in the post-financial crisis era, entitled, "A Global Body and a Global Problem: The Curious Case of the G-20 and Securities Regulation," published in the Cornell International Law Journal.

Education

- Cornell University Law School (J.D.)
- New York University (B.A., magna cum laude)

Bar & Court Admissions

- New York
- Israel

Languages

- Azerbaijani
- English
- Hebrew
- Russian

Client Highlights

Neural Input Technology Company, Wearable Devices Ltd. IPO

Sullivan represented Wearable Devices Ltd., a growth company developing a non-invasive neural input interface technology in the form of a wrist wearable band for controlling digital devices using subtle finger movements for B2B and B2C customers, in its $16 million initial public offering. Wearable Devices is based in Israel and aims to create a world in which the user's hand becomes a universal input device for touchlessly interacting with technology, and that their technology is setting the

Capabilities

- Capital Markets
- Corporate
- Global Capital Markets
- Hi-Tech
- Israel/Middle East
- Israel Practice

standard input interface for the Metaverse.